Pigeon Simulator is a simulation of an even more exciting game of fetch. Having started to acquire and collect pigeons, you get a message on your phone from one of your best pigeon friends that some pigeons have been seen coming from across the ocean to call for you. The problem is that in Pigeon Simulator, pigeons come from heights of up to 40km, and if you are not careful, the pigeons can fly in circles with slight variations in height - never before experienced in this pigeon related application. You need to catch the pigeons in the circle, lift them up and get them to your awaiting collection device. Pigeons can be collected by the fan, harness, helicopter, net, net picker or strangling machine. The higher the pigeon flies, the closer to the top of the screen it will appear and the more money you get! But, beware - there is a rope attached to the bottom of the screen that you need to grab in time. You have to wait for the pigeon to land, before you can start the lift. Watch your time! If you miss the rope by even the slightest second, the pigeon will make an upwards circle and you will lose a life. Pigeon Simulator includes a lot of things for you to collect: Guide your pigeon friend from across the ocean to your collection point. Keep an eye on the top rope; the faster you get there, the faster your next money - no matter if you miss the rope or what direction you catch the pigeon. Avoid the circular raindrops and pipes. If you collect the flag it will earn you even more money for your collection device. Collect different kinds of pigeons from different locations. Collect a lot of coins to get to more complex areas of the game. Collect the special pigeons. Collect as many points as possible. Loot for items to get to higher ranks. Watch your time and avoid the circular raindrops and pipes. Keep your eyes on the top rope. Beware of the ring of the net picker! Collect a lot of coins to get to more complicated areas. Collect the special pigeons. Collect items that earn you more coins. Watch your time and avoid the circular raindrops and pipes. Loot for items to get to higher ranks. Avoid the circular ring. Watch your time and avoid the circular raindrops and pipes. Keep an eye on the top rope.

Color Code is a brain teaser game, with a lot of fun, where you have to replicate a color code. It's simple, yet just hard enough to keep you going. We feel inspired by the different ways to play other puzzles games, and Color Code is the result. Play free at - Hide Games Color Code - 49 levels, play it free! - Support Support this game at - Audio Audio from this game is a mix of "The Starfighters" and "Riders". This gives the audio a more "colorful" and enjoyable feel. - Follow Our development Color Code is developed by Mazdrules, a small indie game development studio in Riga, Latvia. In the future we are planning to release free updates for the game, add more levels, and create a "Level pack mode". This would be an extra layer of difficulty that would basically add a new level pack. Screenshots The game is available on the Google Play Store, If you like the game, could you also rate it? It would be great, thanks in advance! A: Try to isolate these styles:

review Good gaming doesn't need any fawning or flowery words, else you're not doing it right. It's pure, visceral, and usually boils down to either a text (or voice) response system or "Fuck this" power. Mutant Year Zero: Seed of Evil offers all of that in spades, but on top of that it's also a game about a world that oozes murder and sadness, well, everywhere. The video above is a rough, early, and unfinished demo of the game which you can see more of at the official website. It's a small section of a much larger journey of about 35 hours which you can read more about over here. It's interesting to see how the dev team has developed the story, puzzles, pacing, and gunplay. If you have the skills to complete it, it's well worth it. I had a chance to play a short portion of the game last year. I was impressed at the time, and now it has gotten even better. Starting with a core gameplay mechanic of watching and reacting to your surroundings without any of the overhead inventory or compass, the plot centers around the unusual real-time decision-making expected of Wild, except we're presented with quite a sizable number of choices. Some of them are a matter of life and death, but we've been given a bit more leeway in how to approach them compared to the initial demo, allowing for a bit more wiggle room overall. Instead of being told that if we go in the building, we'll be met with a gun, up until now it's been handled like any other foe here: we make our move and are either met with a resolution or our demise. It provides a certain strategy, but the problem is that if you take in a building without knowing what's inside, how can you know you'll be surviving that encounter? It's no guarantee. The good news is that the engineering team included the need to react before you walk in and take refuge on your enemies being equipped with only on hand weapon. But what do I get at that time? Musket? Realistic ballistic rifle? How about my sidearm, or my shotgun? Do I get into cover or duke it out? Running the tree would be best, but then I don't know where the enemy is coming
