Our analysis illustrates that the variation in the surgical procedure volume among the 13 million hospitalizations that occur in the United States represents a nationwide index of the proportion of the US surgical case volume that occurs at centers of varying case volume. As such, it can be used to forecast future patterns of clinical practice patterns

Dueling Q&A Sessions: Start-Up or Nonprofit? On Wednesday, March 20, the Kansas City Center for Nonprofits, an advocacy center for Kansas City-based nonprofits, held a one-hour-long Q&A session for prospective nonprofit start-ups. KCNC was invited to be a sponsor, and lead off the session with questions. The panel consisted of five nonprofit professionals. Over the last seven months, the Center has conducted nine Q&A sessions with prospective nonprofit start-ups. The Center works with a network of businesses, government entities, foundations, and other resources that assist these prospects in their efforts to start or become a nonprofit. About The Author: Alexander Ragone Alex is a journalist who focuses on the area of cyber governance and information risk management/protection.
