What does the game look like? As the interface and game appearance are bound to the platform, we developed the game on the basis of the original conception. About the theme, we make use of dark and simple color arrangements. We also made the entire game easy to read, such that it can be grasped at a glance. We crafted all of the in-game elements such that they appear to float, and added the feeling that the background moves while you are moving. 2. Will the game have anything special in terms of sound? We created high-quality sound effects and music that embody the core elements of the game, and arranged them so that they will be even more astounding in the game with the wide range of battle elements.  How to get the best results?  1. If the game screen is not displayed on the phone, it is displayed on a separate application on the phone, and all key features can be adjusted according to the size of the display. 2. Even if the screen is small, the experience of the game will not be compromised.  We hope for the game to be played on a full-sized smartphone screen. **

Bone marrow stem cells (BMSCs) have been isolated from allogeneic donors and have demonstrated both anti-infective and pro-survival effects in patients with severe sepsis. This study aimed to determine whether BMSC treatment could modify the inflammatory response and clinical course of a severe model of trauma-induced sepsis. The Mysteries of the Living Land GUNTHATHUNG: Willing yourself to sleep, Altering the memories of one's own soul, Escape from reality Entering into the illusion of a dream, Sink into the vivid waves of peace. While the fish of that sea travel freely, I absorb them in their entirety and break them down.

Seeing the distant stars in a dark sky, With a piece of scythe I soar the night.

But the sun is invisible now, [Not withstanding] that it is the secret threshold From which all streams flow forth.

No boundaries, no limits, no obstacles— [Only this is true] Extending to all things, everywhere, unchanged.

Finally reaching the horizon, I discover humanity has not surpassed the limit to perceive me. Yet, I understand that this is only the illusion of the fish realm, Because today's self does not truly exist.

VINE: The bearing of the night sky, Infinite rivers flow, Plowing over the living land.

A little billowing here and there, A little mist here and there,

An online guide will be released soon.

AKRON, Ohio -- Ohio's cities are getting some back-to-back glow. According to the National League of Cities, five of Ohio's eight largest cities qualified as having strong growth in 2016, meaning they were the only ones to show an increase in population or employment. (See the full ranking at the top of this story.) Among the cities getting a bump in 2016 were Youngstown and Dayton. In 2016 the Census Bureau reported Youngstown's population grew 1.7 percent while Dayton's employment grew 3.4 percent over the previous year. Advertisement Flint -- which has been in decline for more than a decade -- also showed a modest, but reliable, uptick of 0.2 percent. Meanwhile Wilmington had the fewest changes, experiencing a decrease of just 3.7 percent. Two of the state's smallest cities -- Dover and Somerset -- also qualified after impressive employment growth of more than 10 percent. The communities of Ottawa, Dover and Somerset lost residents over the year as 2015 recorded a population loss and 2016 continued the trend. Cleveland also had a big year. It grew 0.9 percent while Columbus, which has languished in recent years, grew 1.2 percent. The other main winner in the rankings was Cincinnati, which grew 6.3 percent. Akron and Columbus both reported growth among the highest in the country, while Youngstown experienced the top growth rate of any city in Ohio. In Ohio, the cities that made the list are: Akron Albany Antioch Canton Cincinnati Columbus Dayton Dover Edison Florence Lakewood Lorain Martins Ferry Mansfield Mayfield Mercer Mentor Porter Somerset St. Clairsville Stow Youngstown (See full list at the top of this story.) The cities were ranked among 108 large metropolitan statistical areas (MSA), 173 medium-sized MSA, 816 small MSAs, 65 micropolitan areas and 873 independent cities by their growth. The rankings consider how many residents live in the city and how much that number is growing. Lowest- to highest
