A: Upon inspecting your code and solving the Missing NameError exception in the source file I see that you are calling the p() function when the try block is exited. If this is not supposed to happen but rather is supposed to be a function called inside the try block then you should see that what you need is to modify your approach. Your approach, as in the code posted, doesn't make a lot of sense. Do something like this. for i in xrange(L): #find the range of the value try: low = float(float(self.income['.'])i[:2
