WebsitePanel Network Installer is a compact utility that facilitates the installation of web-related services and components on your computer. WebsitePanel Network Installer Description: WebsitePanel Network Installer is a compact utility that facilitates the installation of web-related services and components on your computer. A: There's no need to use site specific software for managing network connections. While it is easy to accidentally get access to someone else's computer, there's only a few situations where this is likely to happen (similar to network shares on Windows - it's still likely to be an annoying inconvenience, but it isn't a security risk or a privacy risk). Most people don't understand the implications of netmapping and no-one will care if you can access their shared files. So I'd strongly advise against it. I'd recommend searching for a guide
