Download the free Paragon Partition Manager 12 Professional Crack Serial Key Paragon Partition Manager 12 Professional Crack Serial Key The Paragon Â .Howdy, welcome to the intarsia tutorial. In this tutorial we're going to make a hard hat The first thing to do is open up the images you want to stitch. This tutorial will cover stitching in Inkscape and then stitching in Photoshop but for now we'll just open up the same images as we did in the previous tutorials. The one thing you need to know is to keep your stitch lines spaced roughly the same. If you're stitching smaller images, like building blocks, they're going to overlap in a way that doesn't look like a cohesive design and we want that. So where you place your stitch lines, spacing them out, is going to be quite important. So we've got our illustration layers open. We're going to scale it down a bit to make the hat fit the page. The hardest part of this tutorial, which is yet to come, is to actually stitch these frames together. So with the hat layer selected and in the shape layer palette, set the X and Y to 0. This is the spacing that we want for the hat stitch. Make sure your stitch line is selected. Click on the pen tool icon. From the pen tool palette go to create polygon. If you want to use any of the other stitch options the different lettering options for the pen tool from the pen tool palette are at the top of the screen. Just take a look through them. Select the drawing canvas for the size you want your stitch lines to be. Click the green tick icon. Now you can see how many stitch lines you have. By default it'll be 8. Drag your stitch lines to where you want them. You can click and drag, zoom out from the actual stitch line to see the stitching, or you can drag and rotate so that you can see where the stitching is in relation to where you are looking at. If it overlaps you're going to need to create a different stitch line or lines so drag the pen tool again and create a new line where you want to place one. Make sure the same line is selected. Now click on the green tick icon again.
