It was designed by a group of independent programmers and is not affiliated with Adobe, although it is based on the same open-source software library. GIMP uses a layer-based editing system that allows you to edit different parts of an image as a series of overlays that support transparency. Unlike Adobe's Photoshop, GIMP does not offer as many creative tools as Photoshop does, but it does offer some unique features, such as cutouts, borders, and patterns. GIMP is completely easy to use and modify. There is no training required to

The temperature of daylight light, measured in Kelvin (K) units, depends on time of day and time of year. For example, you can change the Kelvin temperature of the light up to 2,000 Kelvin to make it warmer or cooler than daylight light. Notice that, for the brightest white, the Kelvin temperature should be approximately 2,600 – 2,800. Click the OK button to complete the operation. Sharpening Images You can add a bit of sharpness to your image by using the Sharpen filter. To do so: Choose Enhance on the Edit menu. Select Sharpen Select Sharpness in the box. , and that the statute is unambiguous in this regard. He maintains that the phrase "to any litigant" in section 101.106(f) is to be given its plain and ordinary meaning and that only "those same parties," i.e., only the plaintiff and the tortfeasor defendants named in the original petition, are allowed to join a subsequent lawsuit. In the present case, he asserts that because the state defendants were not named in his original petition, they are ineligible to join as parties to this claim. Under section 101.106(f), the state defendants are eligible, though as against him. We disagree with Waite's interpretation and holding of section 101.106(f). In construing section 101.106(f), our primary goal is to give effect to the legislature's intent as expressed in the language of the statute, we presume that every word was used for a purpose and that each word, rather than being superfluous, is deemed significant. See Phillips v. Bramlett, 288 S.W.3d 876, 882 (Tex. 2009); Fitzgerald v. Yu, 34 S.W.3d 805, 808 (Tex. App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 2000, no pet.). Waite argues that the phrases "to the same extent" and "the same extent" mean that the state defendants are not allowed to sue him for the same conduct for which they would be liable to him under section 101.106(f). Waite reads "any other" to refer back to the "same extent" phrase, and therefore, the phrase "to any litigant" must only apply to the limited group of defendants described in the "same extent" phrase, i.e., the individual(s) identified in the original petition. However, Waite's argument presupposes that the two phrases are grammatically linked. We agree
