Have you ever wanted to build and maintain a thriving, vibrant metropolis? This is your chance! Become the mayor of a massive, sprawling city through countless major and minor decisions: what kind of buildings to construct, which industries to support, how many residences to build, etc. The people living in your town and its surroundings – as well as the city itself – are mostly AI, so it's your job to give them a place to live, work, and raise their families. Patron is a city builder in the traditional sense – you build a city by collecting resources, constructing buildings, and deciding where to place everything. However, the game offers some interesting twists on the formula: resource management, specialist agents, diplomacy, procedural world generation, and more, will all play a major role in creating an engaging experience. Key Features: Create a massive, sprawling metropolis with hundreds of buildings and even more citizens. Experience the dense living conditions and interconnected relationships residents will have with each other and their environment. Battle the other leaders, and defend your city against hostile attacks from other towns. Learn more about your citizens and keep them safe from diseases, crime, and other unforeseen threats. Explore the many in-game mechanisms and options that will give your city a unique feel. Path of exile map makerBy hobbesPosted on 20/08/16 03:03:00 You Can Find The ExileMap MakerOn The Down

I work for a small game developer and work on the project as part of my freelance work. If you're interested, you can see our page which is up on the front page! We work by the motto "take no time" we make games as quickly as possible and as well as possible. Check out our project and feel free to ask any questions! Patreons of Support will receive some special rewards, including exclusive outfits and playable characters and additional custom moves available only to this group. Highlights of our upcoming content: We will be adding even more playable characters to the game. Players can expect at least three more playable characters by the game's launch on December 5th. You'll also be able to play as your favorite character from the Punch Planet universe. Cosplaying characters like Roy from the comic will also be an option. You'll be able to play as your favorite musician and even as a TV personality. The studio is always striving to improve its production quality. In the upcoming update, we've added several bug-fixes and gameplay improvements. Some of them are bug-fixes from previous updates and some of them are new. Combat system is the most important part of this game, so we tried to improve it a lot. Now combat is more involving and you can see your character in action. Previously combat was more of a fast-paced action game, with barely any break between rounds. Now, it has a focus on skill and tactics, with more depth. As of the latest update, the opponents were much harder. We tried to make them more realistic, so we added the option to turn on/off custom AI that simulates gameplay you'd see on the show. You can choose to play against a regular AI, a "comic AI" who follows the style of the comic, a "movie AI" who tries to pursue maximum damage and force blocks to the opponent, and finally you can switch to "classic AI" that simply walks around and doesn't do any special moves. You can also change the Light Resistance level, and see the effect of that. Some characters will become faster but less durable, some will become slower but tougher. As for the main character, we added a new move that is a part of his homage suit. Now, based on the number of level points you have, you can perform a "Karate Kamehameha

What's new in Sepia Tears: Reprise Edition:

: After his untimely death and being brought back to life, Nixus, a zany, long-haired dragon who likes to fight, joins the Samurai Dragon crew in hopes of harnessing his skill in combat. He is reluctant to share his full name with any humans, despite the fact that the crew leads themselves by following the honor system, with a judge, a town, and an executioner. He has, on several occasions, been healed of incurable diseases simply by sharing his powers with others and has accidentally caused thousands of humans' deaths as a side effect, such as killing off a town and hurting assassins and others who have hunted him down. Whether or not he has the capacity to kill the most powerful snake as well as various heavenly beings, he allies himself with the best of the Dragonair wing in hopes that he will be the one to take down Dragonair. WOLVERINE: Warrior X has been determined to take down the alpha-males of the X-Men for a very long time. However, his goals are far more complex than just stopping them from causing a global catastrophe. His intentions also go far beyond helping people -- he wants to end all conflict, to eradicate hatred and make peace universal. He wants to stop the destruction of the world and enjoy the peace of the future. Lilith: Created by various Dragonair Grunts, this Raven-haired teenage female was the deuteragonist of the Darkstalkers' game. Upon failing in her attempts to find out their true identities and host body, she killed them to get revenge. It wasn't until she was in danger of being killed by Soot Black, that she reluctantly proclaimed herself their favorite. Later, she was the first of Dragonair Grunts to become a Dragoness of Death. She was chosen by Seth, a member of fellow Dragonair Grunt, The Crystals to host his soul after deciding to become a mortal. As a result, she gained the powerful Serpensio Sentient, which allowed her access to many of his abilities. The rest of her group became her personal bodyguards. Raven: A second Dragoness of Death, Raven shares the same group as Lilith, the Crystals. After the Star Children were attacked by The Crystals in their attempt to host The Elder on her, she took them back to Queen Raven by herself. With a lot of effort, she saved them from their situation. Raven has long been wary of Soot Black, but
