Find and complete graffiti murals around the city, unlock new abilities, and take down Company Corp. "What?!" I hear you say, "Sounds like a console game, not a PC game!". Well, Chromalition is about to change that! We decided to make Chromalition a PC game. Part of the reason is that we want you to experience the game as a true PC gamer should. Features like Full Controller Support and the ability to change the resolution of the game (instead of forcing the resolution of your monitor) are just a few examples of how we are modernizing the PC experience. But, we can't just make the game and call it a day. We have a lot to do before Chromalition can be released, and we don't want the game to be released without features and support for other platforms. We are coming to Kickstarter to raise the funds required to create the necessary features and support needed to get the game out the door. mission A summer or winter mission is a humanitarian operation conducted in locations other than a country where one or more armed conflicts are taking place, and thus not deemed a "peacekeeping" operation by the United Nations Security Council. Missions are usually conducted by companies, nongovernmental organizations, and others unaffiliated with any government. The three standard "winter" missions are the United Nations Operation in the Congo, United Nations Operation in Mozambique, and United Nations Operation in Sierra Leone. Missions may be undertaken in other countries, but are often considered to be a type of peacekeeping mission. Many humanitarian agencies are involved in such missions, and often provide the bulk of the manpower. In 1990, the United Nations established the United Nations Transitional Assistance and Restoration of Iraq (UNTARI) programme, effectively creating the first multinational peacekeeping operation. History The first winter operation was the 1949 UNEF United Nations Emergency Force intervention in the Sinai. Since then summer and winter missions have become increasingly frequent: 1953-1954 - A force of United Nations Protection Force (UNPROFOR) monitors the Lebanese border during the Six-Day War. 1954 - A United Nations Police mission is in the Eritrean War of Independence; however, the army of Eritrea is eventually able to stop it. 1967 - A United Nations embargo force (UNEF) is sent to Jordan. 1972-1990 - In the Yom Kippur War, a force of United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL) monitors the Syrian border. 1984-1985 - United Nations troops occupy Hola Camp, Liberia. 1990-1999 - In the Kīnchū earthquake, International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement (also known as International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) and International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies (IFRC)) units are deployed to assist in emergency response and recovery efforts for three years. 1991-2001 - The United Nations Observer Mission in Georgia (UNOMIG) monitors the First Chechen War. 1995 - The United Nations Transition Assistance Group (UNTAG), a United Nations peacekeeping mission tasked with facilitating the departure of the South African administration in Namibia, is subject to a critical mission report from the Special Rapporteur on the Situation of Human Rights in Namibia. 2002 - A peacekeeping force is sent to assist the International Police Task Force (IPTF) in the invasion and occupation of the Democratic
