Walt Disney World Resort - Premiere Theater - Disney Springs A 'Premiere Theater' attraction, the Walt Disney World Resort featured an incredibly large 3-dimensional cinema with back-to-back stereophonic sound. The theatre was located on the third floor of the Epcot park, in a questaccessible area that is not part of the park's World Showcase and has become, somewhat ironically, a Disney Springs highlight. In 2004, Disney announced plans to convert this 20,000-square-foot theatre into "a state-ofthe-art music venue." With over 50,000 square feet, the theatre had only one regular theatre showing movie, located in a space directly adjacent to it, and one balcony area that seated 20 guests. Disney's decision to convert the theatre into a music venue, rather than leave it as a cinema, came after 1996, when the company found that its theatres lost money (3-D films played in 3-D venues attracted fewer attendees than the same films played in 2-D venues that people could choose to attend if they preferred). Besides, Disney already had a number of 'music venues', or rather 'restaurants', located at its resorts, such as Disney's Aulani Resort, Disney's Contemporary Resort, Disney's Fort Wilderness Resort & Campground, Disney's Grand Floridian Resort & Spa, Disney's Saratoga Springs Resort & Spa, Disney's Beach Club Resort, Disney's Old Key West Resort, Disney's Polynesian Villas & Bungalows, Disney's Contemporary Resort & Villas, and Disney's Port Orleans Resort. So instead of opening more restaurants, Disney decided to build a new theatre and a new restaurant. The new theatre, and thus also the new restaurant, opened for the start of the 2006 trade day, May 9, 2006. The new restaurant, called "The Groove," had an opening season of six months, from June 9, 2006 to March 9, 2007. Since the opening day, the park's other dining options have been reduced in the Epcot area. However, the added range of dining options, from ice cream and coffee shops to quick-service meals, is also contributing to the modern-day decline of
